

“I had a court appearance that I didn’t go to because I felt discouraged. I felt like a failure. I thought that maybe all of the stereotypes about Aboriginal people are true – barely any of us have our Grade 12; we’re homeless; we’re all criminals. I felt like I was fitting all of those stereotypes and I felt like giving up.”

